Schulich
School of Business
Executive Education Centre

Sales revenue is the lifeblood of every business.

Sales leadership has the single greatest influence on the sales team's ability to deliver it.

Today's sales leaders are tasked with many challenges: increase revenues, reduce employee turnover, improve sales funnel velocity, enhance ROI, and manage, coach and motivate multigenerational teams to name a few – all while achieving in-year results. But in today's VUCA (volatile, uncertain, complex and ambiguous) business environment, traditional approaches to sales management are increasingly ineffective. Transforming organizational sales requires creating a culture of agility by aligning strategy, people and processes.

Strategy

In order to achieve long term growth, sales leaders must learn to develop sales and marketing strategies that align with corporate strategy, and ensure these cascade down to the tactical level in client interactions to generate opportunity.

People

Competing effectively requires a motivated and focused team. Sales leaders must maximize the potential of team members through breakthrough communications, coaching, recruitment and performance management.

Process

To ensure they have the right processes and infrastructure in place to maximize results – such as systems to capture employee insights and drive innovation – sales leaders must be able influence internal stakeholders to support a sales-driven organization.

The Effective Sales Leader

Achieve in-year results as you develop and refine skills for dynamic corporate leadership roles:

- Innovator
- Influencer
- Integrator
- Leader

Masters Certificate in Sales Leadership

The Masters Certificate in Sales Leadership equips sales leaders with the knowledge, tools and insights required to create, develop and maintain an effective sales force. You'll have the opportunity to reflect on your team, your company, your style, and what needs to be done to plan and implement long-term strategy and achieve in-year, short-term results.

Participants will learn from industry leaders informed by leading edge research and best practices and will benefit from extensive sharing of ideas and experiences with other attendees from across a range of business sectors.

The program will especially benefit sales leaders who manage a sales force that operates in today's complex business-to-business environment. Participants will take away the following:

- Strategic Alignment Plan
- Business Plan
- Change management skills
- Coaching model
- Innovative approaches to motivation
- Critical thinking skills
- Recruitment Plan
- Segmentation and coverage strategy
- Sales management process
- Opportunity Management Process
- Innovation Model
- Account Development Plan

Achieve your Masters Certificate in as little as 13 days over three months, or complete all individual modules at your own pace within three years. The third module, 'Process,' must be taken last and cannot be taken without completion of the other two. As a culminating exercise at the end of the Process module, participants will present their organization-specific case project in a confidential forum to receive feedback and guidance from the Advisory Council of the Centre of Excellence in Sales Leadership.

Register today to make the move to sales mastery and take your place at the forefront of sales leadership professionalism.
