Program Faculty

Sandra Martyn

PMP

With almost 28 years of experience in project management, Sandra Martyn has unique perspectives on the challenges experienced in almost all industries, including projects in manufacturing, construction, government, food, health, automotive, financial, transportation, pharmaceutical and biotech, among others. She has a reputation for planning and executing projects and building strong, cohesive teams.

Sandra consistently receives the highest ratings from her clients for the value she provides in her programs. Sandra adheres to the framework set out by the Project Management Institute, but her own business experience enables her to make difficult project management concepts seem easy as she delivers her training in clear and understandable terms. She helps program participants avoid common project management mistakes. Her teaching aids and exercises are popular, and the group work sessions are critically important in applying concepts to real life projects.

This was a great overview of project management. I'm confident that with the skills I've learned in this program my next project will be a success.
